

Handhelds in Teaching & Learning

Blog Evaluation

As a reflection and assessment tool, you will keep an ongoing blog (“weblog”). In this online journal, you will share your thoughts, insights, questions, web links, and ideas about what was learned in each class session. You will also respond to other classmates’ blogs by posting comments. Below are guidelines for the evaluation of your blog.

Circle one in each box.

Posts &amp; Comments	There are at least 12 posts in the blog, each with at least 200 words. At least 6 comments have been made in classmates’ blogs. Each comment is at least 75 words.	Excellent Satisfactory Unsatisfactory
Timeliness	A post is added to the blog within a week of each class session.	Excellent Satisfactory Unsatisfactory
Personal Examples	Blog posts and comments share personal connections to class content and discussion about teaching, learning, and/or handhelds.	Excellent Satisfactory Unsatisfactory
Writing Standards	The writing is clear, concise, and easy to understand. Ideas and responses are communicated clearly and coherently.	Excellent Satisfactory Unsatisfactory
Overall Evaluation	Consider the four areas above and evaluate the blog as a whole.	Excellent 18/18 points Satisfactory 14/18 Unsatisfactory 9/18
